Spotlight on NES

Teachers and staff at Newport Elementary School are committed to helping students reach their full potential. Teachers personalize learning by meeting with students before the start of the school year and working one-on-one with them during the year.

Community relationships and tradition are important to NES, which has been serving students since 1888. The school welcomes community involvement and hosts several community events during the year. The school also has an active Parent Teacher Organization (PTO).

Newport Elementary was recognized in 2017 and 2018 as a school that is “beating the odds” by the Minneapolis Star Tribune. The recognition was earned for academic achievement despite barriers typically associated with communities with a high degree of poverty. NES has been recognized for both reading and math achievement.

“Newport Elementary teachers and staff for look for ways to connect with all students to help build caring relationships in order to help guide students in their education and their personal lives. ”
